About
SHERRIE SUBER

I've served in the design business for nearly 10 years, and there is nothing I love more. I've always been a designer at heart. Not only do I love the creative part of my business. I love the relationships that I've been able to build.

I've always been a maker. I've studied disciplines such as psychology, business, and architecture, but nothing quite grabs me like the field of design. I love both practical design and interior design. I love the planning that goes into a project, as well as what goes in to layering on the finishing touches.
